Paris, Washington DC, 19.06.2022, 19:50 Time

USPA NEWS - The results of the second round of the Parliamentary elections, have just been revealed, by the French press at 8:pm, French Time (Official Time for free release) from the source of the Ministry of the Interior caused a "tsunami" media and politics. The Government Majority Party is in the lead with 241 seats, (including 166 obtained by LREM, Emmanuel Macron's "Renaissance" Party, 28 for "Horizons" (Former PM Edouard Philippe's Right Party and 47 for Modem, Centrist), without however, obtaining an absolute government majority. For the first time since 1962, a President of the Republic is in the minority in the National Assembly. NUPES, the new Left Alliance launched by Jean Luc Melenchon (Founder of LFI La France Insoumise), won in second place 147 seats, and in third Marine Le Pen's Party, RN (National Rally) which obtained 90 Seats at the French National Assembly and LR (The Republicans) which ranks fourth with only 61 seats, followed by PCF (Communist Party) with 13 seats. Marine Le Pen's party will thus form a full-fledged parliamentary group within the hemicycle, unheard of since 1986.

Marine Le Pen's party will thus form a full-fledged parliamentary group within the hemicycle, unheard of since 1986. The government coalition whose disavowal (LREM + MODEM = 213 or 100 seats less than 2017) is strong as the seats obtained have fallen, and in the same way, as for The Republicans (LR = 113 seats in 2017, and only 61 in 2022).

Previously, i.e. in 2017, the composition of the 577 deputies of the National Assembly was composed as follows: RIGHT

LR : The Republicans, Right) : 113
LFI (La France Insoumise, Far Left): 17
RN (National Rally, Far Right): 8
PS (Socialist Party, Left) : 29
PC (Communist Party, Far Left) : 10
PRG (Left Radical Party) : 3
ECOLOGIST (Ecologist Party): 1

New current French National Assembly (House of representative, MP's) in 2022 is composed as follows (As of June 19):

RIGHT
LREM (RENAISSANCE) : 166
HORIZON : 28
LR : 61
RN (National Rally): 90

CENTRIST

MODEM : 47

LEFT

PS (Socialist Party,Left) : 29

EELV : 21

PC (Communist Party, Far Left) : 13

OTHERS : 11

STRONG PARLIAMENTARY GROUPS UNDER ALLIANCES & COALITION :

ENSEMBLE (Presidential Coalition) : LREM + MODEM+ HORIZON = 166+ 47 + 28 = 241

NUPES (Left Opposition, Alliance) : LFI + PS+ EELV + PC = 84+ 29+ 21 + 13 = 147

RN (Right Opposition, By Itself) : RN on its own = 90

IN FRANCE A POLITICAL PARTY NEEDS TO GET 289 SEATS TO HAVE AN ABSOLUTE MAJORITY IN THE NATIONAL ASSEMBLY

Out of the 577 seats, it is necessary for a political party to reach the number of 289 seats to become an absolute majority and therefore assured of being able to pass its laws and reforms. However, the ruling party did not obtain this absolute majority. They obtained a relative majority, which encourages him to furax alliances, and even arrangements with other parties to reach this quorum. In any case, the parties that have won the most seats are the extreme left-wing LFI and right-wing RN parties, and representing the opposition...left and right.

And knowing that the score of the government coalition ("Ensemble", "Together") already includes small parties (LREM + MODEM + HORIZON), in accordance with Emmanuel Macron's doctrine "Le En Meme Temps" which added to the President's Party Macron, LREM (renamed "Renaissance"), this leaves very little room to expand its number of signs, possibly by an alliance with the Republicans of LR (61 seats) who in turn had in 2017

It is a huge shift that the National Assembly is making, whose governance will be complicated, as it is configured and promises heated and heckled debates by very strong opposition groups... This will nevertheless allow a better "breathing democratic" necessary through debates based on the adversarial principle and better representation of the population. Indeed, in France the principle of the proportional election had been promised by the pressers of the Republic who have succeeded since descents, including the current Macron, but never before dared to apply it. From now on, it is done, the French people, have abrogated themselves of this democratic value very representative of the distribution of the divergent opinions of the French, by having the three blocs elected: Center (Right + Left + Centrists) Extreme Left, Extreme , by their votes cast in the second round of the parliamentary election.

Marine Le Pen is probably the winner of this race, starting smoothly the election with only 10% in the 1st lap, ending up with 100% of her candidates, winning their election. It is a one of a kind for the RN party usually called "Far right" that could be labeled differently, and called "A new Right", because obtaining 90 seats makes Marine Le Pen institutionalized in Parliament French and freed him from the label "Diabolical political party", often associated with the FN (National Front of so here Jean Marie Le Pen). She promises a "firm opposition without collusion and hard work pays off," she said. As for his new President of the RN Party, Jordan Bardella, he declared "The French people are between this evening at the National Assembly".
